to play given at the Y. M. C. A. thit is of local interest as it was an by the late Mrs. Gertrude Linnell.

The Veills Brothers, who are to open a restaurant in New London today, are to denate to the Red Cross the entire receipts of the opening day. BREED THEATRE

The Sign Invisible, a Mighty Drama of the Northland, Produced by Edgar Lewis, the Man Who Made The Barrier, Feature Today and Satur-

The Sign Invisible opened yesterday at the Breed theatre and played all day to capacity business, it having been announced as an Edgar Lewis production, featuring Mitchell Lewis and many of the same excellent actors who made The Barrier the tremendous success it was. mendous success it was.

It is a story of what happens to an embittered and debased New York doctor who goes to the Canadian Northwest for change of scene and forgetfulness. Thrown among people who are entirely devoid of social pretext to either good or evil the desperate man soon finds himself the storm centre of a series of events which make a mighty interesting photoplay. There are two of the most toplay. There are two of the most vicious screen fights imaginable in both of which Lone Deer (Mitchell Lewis) the giant balf breed hero, covers himself with glory. Some beau-tiful love scenes occur between him and his Indian sweetheart Winoma (Hedda Nova). Mabel Juline Scott as CHedda Nova). Mabel Juline Scott as Jeanette Mercier, the clergyman's daughter, also does excellent work. The picture play is of the outdoor type and is beautiful both as to scenery and photography.

The Sign Invisible will be shown again today and Saturday. Other pictures on the bill include the Hearst-Pathe News and Charlle Chaplin in The Tramp.

AUDITORIUM

Complete Change of Programme Today-Lewis and Marks' Oh. Girls! Company Will Present The Show of Surprines-Mary Anderson and Alfred Whitman in The Flaming Omen and a Sunshine Comedy.

At the Auditorium for today and Saturday the show is entirely a show Saturday the show is entirely a show of surprises, entitled Cabaret De Luxe and nothing like it has ever been seen in Norwich before, with a complete change of musical numbers, and is billed as the most stupendous and sensational musical comedy of the season, cut down to one hour and fifteen minutes. A very funny Sunshine comedy built for laughing purposes only, will furnish thirty minutes of laughter.

FLO-FLO

At the Davis Tonight-Curtain at 8.15 Flo-Flo, that lyrical laugh-making musical comedy which has been hav-ing a sensationally successful run at the Cort theatre, New York, for many months will be brought by John Cort months will be brought by John Cort to the Davis theatre tonight.

Just one of the reasons why Flo-Flo in addition to being Mr. Cort's "war-bride" musical show has been turning crowds away from the Cort nightly is its comedy chorus, every member of which—not only is a "perfect thirty-six," but also boasts of that hitherto unknown quantity among other may be found in the trick hat of that comedy pair, Pinky and Aloysius, whose feet are as agile as their ges.

The personnel of the cast provided by Mr. Cort includes among others Louise Kelley, Hai Skelley, Henry First, Bert Gardner, Blanche Bellaire, Florence Pendleton, Joseph Holland, Marguerite De Von, Innis Brothers, M. W. Hartman, Lou Leathers, and the Perfect Thirty-Six Chorus. The personnel of the cast provided

How filmsy is the boast they often make Of their inhabitancy! Would they could Exchange their make-up fish ponds for a lake, Their "lovely" parks for just one patch of wood! Would they could 'change sky-crapers for real sky And clouds of coal smoke for ethereal blue!

If they could 'change red brickyards for green grass,

And clang of car bells for a robin's lay, A sewer for a woods brook that might pass A cottage window, murm'ring on its way. If they could 'change their city bulls and bears For cows and sheep and other country things;

For lovers' lanes along some river shore, Or trade their glue plants off for country seats, We'd bear their arrogance and say no more. But they've no birds, no fragrance of wild flowers No butterflies, no bees, no shady nooks,

The Norwich Housing C

When I was a sun-tanned country lad,
"Twas thought I was "most uncommon bad."
For I stoned the birds from tree to tree, Mouched from the school, as the boys still do; Played barbarian early and late;

And carry myself as straight as young Dan, When Father would say

"The trout will be keen for the worm before long— I heard the first bobolink raising his song— And if Billy obeys till the end of the week, Then perhaps he and I will go down to the creek."

For of all the fine fun that a boy likes best-And will try to earn honestly under his vest-There is none so ripe as the joy he can feel When he hears the sharp song of the trouting rod ree!!

TOWN AND COUNTRY

BY FLOYD D. RAZE

A blot on Nature. Would the town folk knew

But, as it is, I see no reason why They feel so very highly magnified, do you?

Their stony pavements, where the sunlight glares, For shady glens; their hydrants for cool springs. If they could change their Clark and Water Streets

No cooling breeze, no silent summer hours No sparkling rivers and no babbling brooks.
"God made the country and man made the town;" So give to me the old, the primal sod; The town is yours, with all its wealth-I own I count the country still the home of God!
